

Grammar areas to revise / practise and learn for AS German

Go to www.languagesonline.org.uk - German Grammar

The list below are grammar areas that you need to be confident in for A-level. The more areas you are familiar with, the higher the grade you can achieve at A-level. They are mainly focussed on tenses (present, past, future) but also other useful areas such as accents and use of negatives.

- Choose an area to work on from the list below, starting at the beginning of the list - the list is in the same order it appears on the website.
- Aim to complete as many of the exercises from that one area as possible. (If this means you spend the whole lesson on two of the grammar points below only - that is fine - as long as you are improving your confidence and skills in that tense / grammar area.)
- Write your confidence rating BEFORE. Work through some tasks until you can see your level improving (they are self-marking)
- Then mark in your confidence rating AFTER and a comment on what you still need to work on.

GRAMMAR AREA	RATING: BEFORE 1= not confident 5= very confident	RATING: AFTER and a comment
The Present tense
The Perfect tense
Talking about future plans
Relative pronouns
German Word Order
Cases with ein, mein, dein, sein, ihr
Prepositions - Accusative and Dative
Mixed tenses Revision
Adjectives in the Accusative
Weil clauses
Dative and Genitive - Wo wohnst du?
Subordinate clauses		